"EGYPT" DISASTER RECALLED.

SALVAGE SHIP FINDS LINER WRECK.

HOPES OF RECOVERING GOLD WORTH £1,600,000.

DECK BEING PIERCED.

Paris, Sept. 1.
The Italian salvage ship Artiglio claims to have located the wreck of the liner Egypt which foundered in the Channel in 1922. The salvage ship states that the work of piercing the deck has been started and hopes, as the sea is calm, soon to reach the strongroom in which there are gold ingots valued at £1,600,000.—Reuter.

Explosives to be Used.

Brest, Sept. 1.
Divers declare that the P. and O. liner Egypt is not greatly damaged as a result of her eight years' immersion. She is lying on an almost even keel at a depth of 360 feet. An Italian tug is now on the way to the location of the wreck with explosives with which divers will blow a hole in the Egypt's deck for the purpose of recovering the gold.—Reuter.

A British Wireless message also reports the discovery of the wreck of the Egypt and states that the weather will probably preclude efforts at salvage until next season.

The Italian vessel Artiglio has made several attempts at the salvage of the Egypt. In June this year the Artiglio accompanied by the Rostro arrived at Brest to make yet another attempt to recover the million pound treasure in the Egypt. The liner was lying in water nearly 400 feet deep some fifteen miles off Finisterre.

Electro Magnets Used.

On that occasion the Artiglio erected electro-magnetic equipment with which it was hoped to draw the liner section by section to the surface after it had been blown up with dynamite.

The giant electro-magnets, however, so affected the compasses of the two salvage vessels that another vessel had to be chartered to assist in determining the position of the wreck.

In July last year, the Artiglio, after a month's search, abandoned the attempt and went in search of the British liner Drummond Castle, sunk in 1919, between Le Coquet and Ouessant with £6,000,000 in gold on board. After locating the hull of the latter, she returned later and resumed search for the Egypt.

The Egypt Disaster.

The P. and O. liner Egypt sank on May 20 off Ushant after a collision with the French steamer Seine. The liner was on her way from Bombay to London at the time and was proceeding slowly and precariously in thick fog which surrounded the French coast. The collision occurred about seven o'clock in the evening when the passengers were at dinner.

The force of the impact shook the passengers from their chairs and they rushed on deck to find that the Egypt had been badly holed and that the water was pouring in. At this time the vessel was about twenty miles from Brest and wireless messages were sent out for assistance.

The Egypt was struck by the Seine on the port side and sank twenty minutes after the collision. Many people immediately jumped into the sea and clung to floating objects until they were picked up. After the collision the Seine searched for twenty minutes before locating the Egypt and then used all her life saving apparatus in the ever-thickening fog to rescue passengers and crew. The Seine remained standing by for four and a half hours after the Egypt had gone down.

Lascars Blamed.

There was a panic on board the Egypt, but the ship's officers worked heroically. Many passengers were got into the boats before the liner went down and these were picked up by the Seine which rescued 230 people. French warships picked up other survivors. When the passengers were landed in France, they alleged that

TRADE UNIONS AND TARIFFS.

OPEN MIND ON FREE TRADE QUESTION.

SOCIALISM ISSUE.

London, Sept. 1.
Mr. John Beard, in his presidential speech at the sixty-second annual Trade Union Congress at Nottingham, said to make a fetish of a hundred per cent. free trade was as foolish and as impossible as to declare that tariffs were a cure for all industrial ills.

Referring to the possibility of the organisation of the British Empire as an economic unit, he said the matter should be explored in consultation with the Dominions.

He emphatically stated that there was no evidence of a desire within the Labour movement for "Socialism in our time." At the present time there was no organisation capable of working the change from capitalism without tremendously dislocating the social and economic life of the nation.

Mr. Beard concluded by denouncing the Labour extremists for attacking the Government.—Reuter.

London, Sept. 1.
The attitude of Trade Unions to tariffs was discussed by Mr. John Beard in his Presidential address to the Trade Union Congress at Nottingham to-day.

Mr. Beard said he did not think there was the slightest likelihood that the movement would ever adopt a policy of all-round Protection. On the other hand, the Trade Union movement had not tied itself to any special doctrine regarding the Free Trade theory.

He continued: "The opposite of Free Trade is not tariffs. The opposite of Free Trade is regulated trade, and there are many ways of regulating trade and therefore many methods of establishing economical relations with other nations besides methods of tariffs."

"In considering such links, we shall listen to any case that may be put up for a tariff just as much as for any other methods. Therefore to tie ourselves in advance, or only to discuss matters on Free Trade lines, is a direct denial of our own right to interfere with economic conditions. Trade Unions cannot and will not do that."

"Let us examine the case for and against every suggested proposal. Let us judge each case on its merits. Expediency in the broadest sense of that term must be our guide, and not some abstract principle which may have no relation to the actual facts and problems with which we are faced."

Mr. Beard compared the task of the Labour Government to that of rebuilding a road without stopping traffic, and he appealed for loyal Party support for the Government and its head, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald.—British Wireless.

IDENTIFYING TOWNS FROM THE AIR.

CONFERENCE SUGGESTS USE OF AIRCRAFT.

The Hague, Sept. 1.
The International Air Conference has decided to ask every town of over 10,000 inhabitants to show a sign, according to a system to be determined later, whereby pilots will be able to identify the town over which they are flying.—Reuter.

knives were used and pistols drawn when the panic started.

It was stated that a Lascar seaman shot a passenger who tried to get his wife into one of the ship's boats which was besieged by other Lascars. It was also alleged that the seamen jumped into a boat loaded with women and children. The French Press stated at the time that the passengers were unanimous that if the Lascars had behaved differently there would have been no loss of life.

That a comparatively small vessel like the Seine caused such damage to the Egypt was explained by the fact that the French steamer was constructed for service in ice strewn northern seas. The loss of life in connexion with the Egypt was 15 passengers and 80 of the crew.

NANKING TO TAKE OFFENSIVE.

ARMY OF 400,000 MEN MASSING.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST DRIVES OF THE WAR.

STARTS ON FRIDAY.

Nanking, Sept. 2.
It is reliably learned that the Government troops will start on Friday general offensives on the Kin-Han and Lung-Hai fronts. Heavy troop concentration is going on at present, all along the Lung-Hai front, to which the Government's crack Divisions are being rushed from Tsinanfu.

By Friday, an Army of 400,000 will be massed on the Kin-Han and Lung-Hai fronts, ready for what is forecast as "one of the biggest drives in the present war."

General Liu Shih, who directed the Government advance on Tsinanfu, has been appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Government forces on the Kin-Han front, whilst the former Commander-in-Chief, General Ho Chen-chun, is going to Liuhu to assist Marshal Chiang Kai-shek.—Reuter.

Peking Cabinet Formed.

Peking, Sept. 1.
The formation of a new Peking Cabinet, with Marshal Yen Hsi-shan as Chairman of the Government Executive Council, was discussed at considerable length at the residence of Mr. Wang Ching-wel yesterday, when the Peking politicians decided on the appointment of Mr. Wellington Koo as Foreign Minister, Mr. Shen Hung-liang as Minister of Navy, Mr. Tang Yat-woo as Minister of Education, Mr. Liang Yu-chow as Finance Minister, Mr. Chia Koo-tek as Minister of Communications, General Lu Chung-lin as Minister of War, Mr. Hsieh Tu-pai as Minister of Interior, and General Hu Chung-teh as Minister of Labour and Commerce, while the ministries of Industry, Agriculture and Mining and Justice will be organised by Messrs Chu Shao-kwang, Tang Yuh-ang and Lo Wan-kan.

The renewal of activities among Peking politicians is consequent on the receipt of a telegram from Marshal Yen Hsi-shan announcing his intention of accepting the post as Chairman of the new Government.

Various Parties.

Among the Ministers elected it is to be noted that while the chief lieutenant of Marshal Feng Yuh-hsiang has been assigned to the Ministry of War, a post which Marshal Feng himself held with the Central Government until the recent rebellion, Marshal Yen Hsi-shan's private secretary, Mr. Hsieh Tu-pai, is elected as Minister of Interior, which is the portfolio which Marshal Yen Hsi-shan held with the Nanking Government recently.

The Manchurian Government has considerable influence in the new Cabinet, since the Ministers of Navy and Foreign Affairs as well as Mr. Lo Wen-kan are well known for their support of General Chang Hsueh-liang.

The Kwangsi party, which controlled Kwangsi and Kwangtung in its hey-day, is represented by General Hu Chung-teh as Minister of Labour and Commerce, and General Li Chung-yen as one of the members at the Executive Council.

Manchurian Attitude.

It is believed that the formation of a Peking Government is in connexion with the determination of the Manchurian Government to control Peking and Tientsin. The establishment of this Government is considered the final effort of the Shansi commanders to continue with the war. Marshal Yen Hsi-shan has remitted $300,000 to General Chang Chung-chang in Japan, asking the latter to return to China.

General Chang Chung-chang is known to have some influence in Shantung Province, and Marshal Yen Hsi-shan is therefore desirous of enlisting his support.

Marshal Feng Yuh-hsiang has telegraphed to Talyuanfu asking for ammunition and food, declaring that if supplies are not forthcoming in a week's time the Kuomintang forces along the Lung-Hai Railway will have to retreat to Shansi where they can find food.

VEHICULAR FERRY SCHEME.

COUNCIL TO BE ASKED TO VOTE $1,300,000.

FOR THE TWO PIERS.

The public will be interested to learn that a start is to be made with the vehicular ferry scheme, for at Thursday's meeting of the Legislative Council approval will be sought for the expenditure of a sum of $1,300,000 for the construction of the necessary piers on each side of the harbour.

The matter will come before the Council on the following motions by the Hon. Colonial Secretary:

(a) That this Council approves the construction of Piers at Jubilee Street and Jordan Road in connexion with the institution of a Ferry service which will include the transport of vehicles at an estimated total cost of $1,300,000.

(b) That this Council authorises the sum of $100,000 out of the said sum of $1,300,000 to be charged to a future loan and, sanctions an advance of this sum of $100,000 during the financial year 1930 from the surplus balances of the Colony.

It will be recalled that quite recently the Telegraph intimated that the approval of the Secretary of State to the vehicular ferry scheme had been obtained, and that it was estimated the scheme would be in operation within two years from the date of commencement of construction work. It was then learned that the question whether the actual control of the service and the building and maintenance of the ferry-boats was to be in the hands of Government or private enterprise had not been decided.

The scheme, it is believed, will be carried out largely in accordance with the proposals laid down in the Sessional Paper, which was published by the Government in 1928, which, in addition to providing for piers and offices also includes double-ended ferry boats capable of carrying 12 five-seater cars and passengers, at an estimated cost of over $1,700,000.

FATAL MOTOR-CAR ACCIDENT.

CHINESE LAD KILLED IN THE CITY.

A fatal motor accident occurred at the junction of Des Voeux Road and Pedder Street yesterday afternoon, when a small Chinese boy was knocked down and run over by a public motor car.

According to a report to the police made by Chan Tuk-wai, a licensed motor driver residing at 67, Des Voeux Road Central, he was driving public vehicle No. 506 along Des Voeux Road, near Pedder Street, when a Chinese boy named Hui Hong-sheung, aged seven, of 29, Kimberley Road, Kowloon, was knocked down and run over.

The lad was killed on the spot, and his body was removed to the Public Mortuary.

PROMOTIONS FOR THE PRINCE.

IN NAVY, ARMY AND THE AIR FORCE.

London, Sept. 1.
His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has been promoted Vice-Admiral, Lieutenant-General, and Air Marshal. He thus passes over the ranks of Rear-Admiral, Major-General, Air Vice-Marshal and Air Commodore.

It is understood that the three promotions were announced together in order to honour all the Services simultaneously.—Reuter.

AMERICAN VIEWS ON CHINA.

CAPTAIN DOLLAR'S OPINIONS.

SILVER STABILISATION NO REAL HELP.

COMMITTEE INQUIRY.

San Francisco, Aug. 28.
Senator Key Pittman's committee of investigation into the China trade situation to-day heard Capt. Robert Dollar of the Dollar Steamship Line describe the decrease in America's China trade as shown by tonnage carried in Dollar vessels, which declined 21 per cent. for the first half of 1930 as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

Capt. Dollar compared the figures with various corresponding periods by way of substantiating his point.

The Silver Problem.
The price of silver, he said, depends on the laws of supply and demand, and attempts to stabilize the price cannot be of help to China.

Capt. Dollar said that inbound tonnage of China goods carried on Dollar ships was down 14 per cent., while the freight revenues declined 38 per cent. He added that the freight to Japan declined 10 per cent. for the same period.

While it would be a great boon to China to have the present civil warfare cease, according to Capt. Dollar, he did not feel able to suggest any method of stopping the war.

Capt. Dollar said that he will sail for China next month. Mr. Harold Dollar, his son, is to testify before the Senate committee soon.

Senator Pittman's Views.

Senator Pittman announced that his committee has no intention of recommending that there be any foreign military interference in China.

"At the same time we must always be ready to lend a helping hand; though we must stand aside now, it does not mean that we shall allow our nationals in China to be killed or our property to be destroyed."

Protection of Foreigners.

"No nation has ever forwarded the cause of peace by weakness when a moral principle is involved. No nation can help build a united and prosperous China by permitting the Chinese to destroy the principles upon which international society stands."

"By protecting our own nationals, we actually help to forward the aims which we share with Japan and England—I speak of them because they are most deeply concerned—the aim to help China to stand on her own feet, free, prosperous, unified and happy."

Financial Aid Needed.

As first witness, Mr. Crocheron of the University of California College of Agriculture characterized China as suffering from over-population and internal dissension, while adequate means of transportation are lacking.

Financial aid must be given in order to end the present chaos, Mr. Crocheron said.

Mr. William Montgomery, a research economist, is to submit studies he has made into the silver question and also into Chinese currency reform, contending that the economic condition of China at the present time is due to lack of a uniform policy of borrowing in order to meet administration expenses, together with a lack of tax system and domination by the militarists.

Menace to the World.

Chicago, Aug. 27.
As personal representative of President Hoover, Mr. William Castle, Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, opened the British-American games here to-night.

Commenting on naval limitation, he discredited talk of a "yellow peril" and said that during his recent period as acting American Ambassador to Tokyo, he learned that Japan considers the people of the United States as friends. There is no clash of

HARMSWORTH TROPHY RACE.

COMMODORE GAR WOOD HOLDS HIS TITLE.

Detroit, Sept. 1.
Commodore Gar Wood won the Harmsworth Trophy Race, successfully defending his title to the world speed-boat championship. His average speed was 77.39 miles an hour for the thirty-mile course. Commodore Wood's brother, George, finished second.

The only British competitor was Miss Carstairs who thought her boat would stand a better chance if driven by Mr. Bert Hawker, but the change was unsuccessful.—Reuter's American Service.

Interests between America and Japan, he asserted, nor is there any remote possibility of a clash.

Mr. Castle said that China is in a sadly different situation. "A nation which cannot rule itself," he declared, "must always be a menace to the rest of the world. With Japan, England and the rest, we can only look sadly at the chaos in China."

CLASH ON INDIAN BORDER.

BRITISH LOSSES NOW REVEALED.

NINE MEN KILLED AND TEN WOUNDED.

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT.

London, Sept. 1.
The extraordinary circumstances attending the recent clash between the Government forces and a large armed party of Hathikhel Wazirs which occurred near Domet, in the Bannu District, last week, are described in the Government of India's weekly appreciation of the situation issued to-night.

It appears that a mixed force of regular infantry Frontier Constabulary and police had moved out from Bannu in the early morning to occupy ground where a meeting under a hostile Mullah, Fazl Qadir, had been advertised and to effect the arrest of the leading agitators.

The Mullah and his adherents appeared with a large gathering of armed followers and sent a message stating they were prepared to surrender their leaders for arrest but only under the condition that they were permitted to march with their armed followers first to the place of meeting and thence to Bannu Gaoi where they would give themselves up.

Officer's Death.

A magistrate and political representatives were sent to parley with the leaders, but the hostile lashkar of the Mullah meanwhile continued its advance towards an adjoining hamlet.

There they came up against a platoon of infantry which moved out to stop the lashkar's advance. Captain Ashcroft, who was with the platoon, was attacked by one of the members of the lashkar and while attempting to defend himself was shot dead from behind by another. A general engagement at close quarters, with hand-to-hand fighting, then took place. The Government casualties were nine killed, including Captain Ashcroft, and ten wounded, and the hostile casualties were forty-two killed including Mullah Fazl Qadir and thirty wounded and more than eighty captured. The situation was cleared up.

Peshawar Situation.

The report states that the Peshawar district border remained quiet and that the area of hostile activity moved south towards Fochi Valley. The situation is well in hand but contains serious possibilities. Reference is also made to the terrorist activity in Bengal reported. The Legislative Council, by passing the Bengal Law Amendment Act, recently furnished special powers to deal with the movement. It is hoped that their vigorous use will bring it under effective control, but the difficulties of preventing isolated outrages are considerable.

Boycott Continues.

The report mentions that the educational boycott is losing strength and that the picketing at Allahabad University has been abandoned, owing largely to the opposition of the students themselves. The boycott of foreign goods still continues and remains the main success of Congress. Consequent distress of many thousands of Indian dealers is increasing.

The report expresses the view that generally enthusiasm for the civil disobedience movement is declining, but if its failure becomes more pronounced the activities of those who favour violence are likely to increase.—British Wireless.

Peace Talks Fail?

Allahabad, Sept. 1.
Mr. Jayakar and Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru have interviewed the Nehrus in prison and it is believed that the peace talks have failed.—Reuter.

Calcutta, Sept. 1.

DINNER TO GOVERNOR OF MACAO.

ALL COMMUNITIES CELE-

Macao, Sept. 1.

The birthday of Senhor Tamagnini Barbosa, Governor of Macao, furnished the opportunity for a demonstration of respect and esteem, the manifestation being in the form of a banquet given by his friends and admirers, at the President Hotel, when two hundred and sixty persons sat down to dinner on Sunday.

The approaching conclusion of Senhor Barbosa's term of office prompted a number of local gentlemen to organise the function, and the whole-hearted support by members of all communities in Macao was eloquent testimony of the deep regard in which Senhor Tamagnini Barbosa is held in the Colony. The banquet, though in no sense an official function, was rich with the colour and brilliance that might have characterized an official dinner.

The large dining halls of the hotel were thrown open to form one large hall, and the scheme of decoration, of pot plants and bunting, with festoons of fragrant blossoms, was a most effective one, while brilliant electric lights threw a flood of light on a picturesque scene.

Among those present were the Rev. Fr. J. de Azevedo Bartholomeu, Governor of the Episcopacy, Mr.
Henrique Nolasco da Silva, President of the Municipal Council, Dr.

Felicitous Speeches.

At the conclusion of dinner,
Dr. Lew Yuk-lin, toasted the health of Senhor Tamagnini Barbosa, wishing him success in all his endeavours, and congratulating him on the excellent results of his splendid governorship of Macao, while assuring him of the lasting friendship and esteem of the people of Macao.

Mr. Henrique Nolasco da Silva,
Chairman of the Macao Municipal Council, referred to the splendid results of Senhor Barbosa's stewardship of the government of Macao, in the midst of troublous times, and assured the Governor that the many public demonstrations of regard for him were evidence of the public appreciation of his administration, and of his efforts to preserve happy relations with Macao's neighbours.

Dr. Horacio de Carvalho spoke of the Governor's readiness to shoulder the burden of government in a most difficult situation, and stressed the personal interest that Senhor Barbosa has taken in every phase of the colony's development.

Returning thanks, Senhor Tamagnini Barbosa thanked them all in his own name and his wife's for the affectionate terms of the speeches. It was with a full

Our picture shows the Memorial to the British soldiers missing in the Great War which was unveiled in the British cemetery at Vis-en-Artois, France, on August 4th. Similar memorials were unveiled on the same day at Loos, Pozieres, and Louverval-Cambrai. (Times copyright).

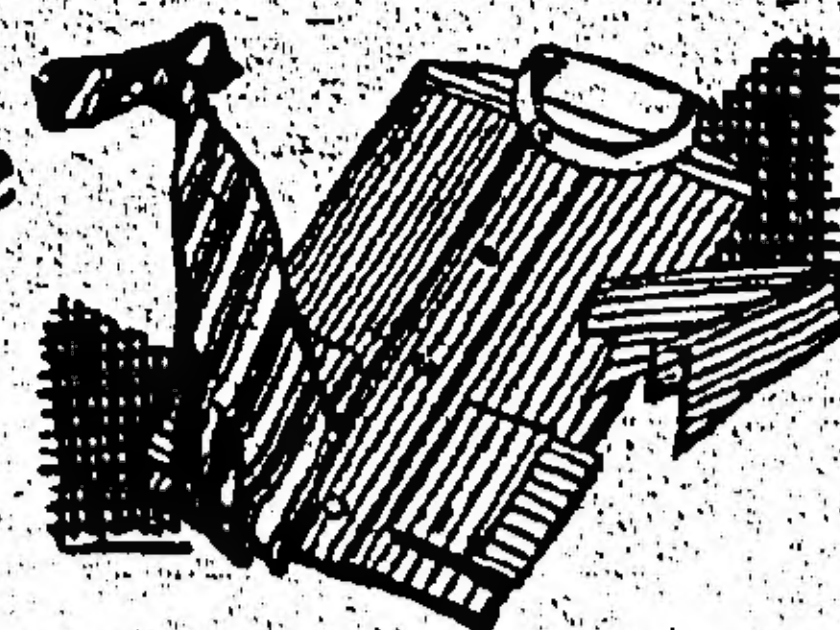

Dictator of Bolivia now is General Don Carlos Blanco Galindo, above. This is the first picture of the rebel leader since he headed the successful one-week revolution which overthrew the government of Dr. Hernando Siles. He has decreed the election of a constitutional assembly to supplant the military power.

Where there is Variety

The tastes of men vary so widely in the matters of dress accessories that it is a disappointing experience for any man to shop at a place where there is insufficient variety to enable him to make a satisfactory choice. This remark applies with equal force to all prices and qualities.

In every item of Men's Wear.

Few men care to go out without purchasing something, and so they satisfy themselves with something "not quite" what was wanted.

Why do it? Come where there is variety, where your wants are studied, where you can obtain what you want at an equitable price.

Mackintosh's

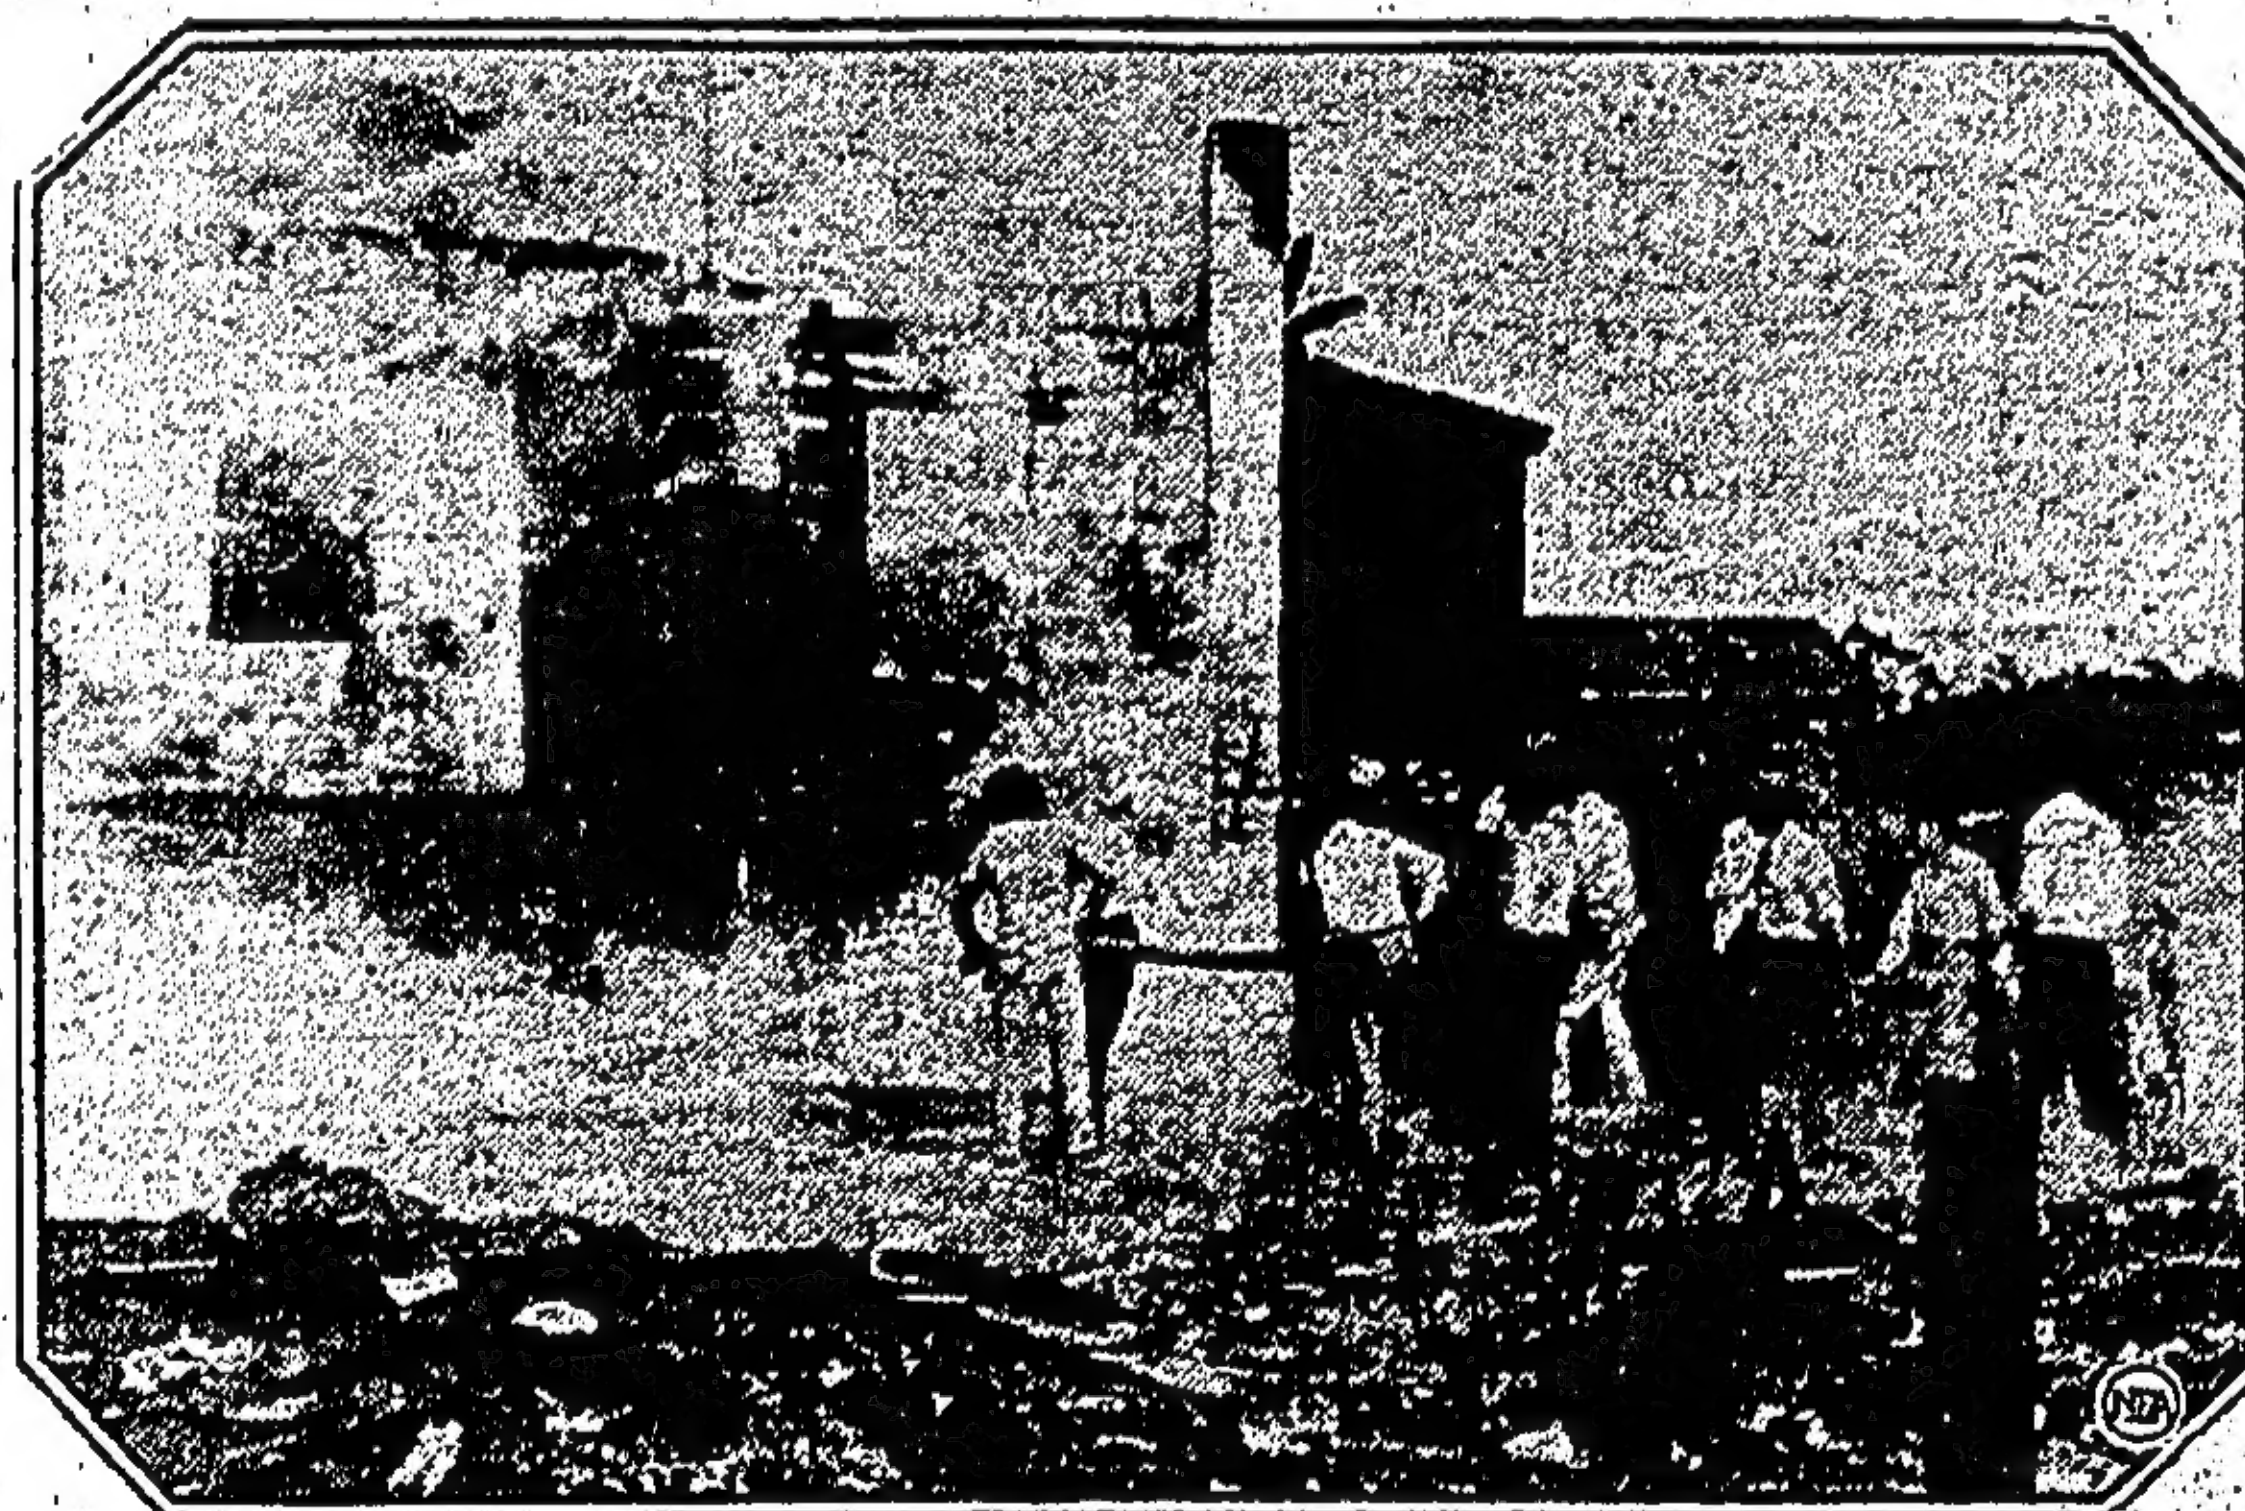

These Los Angeles mermaids took part in a race with Charlie, the trained seal with whom they are shown here at the start.

This picture, taken at the height of the short but successful revolution in Bolivia, shows a barrier erected by armed students who engaged loyal troops in the streets of La Paz, the capital.

Their Serene Highnesses, Prince Ajha, Prince Chirasakti and Prince Prasobari (left to right), nephews of his Supreme Majesty the King of Siam, who reached Vancouver aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia. The two young princes will enter school at Washington, D. C., while their elder cousin, a captain in the Siamese army, will take up temporary residence at the Siamese legation in the United States capital.

This wreckage, following a blast that took three lives, is the result of a child's thwarted desire for an ice cream cone. When Minnie Cimino, 9, was denied the nickel she requested, she set fire to her father's fire-works factory in Asbury Park, N. J. The explosion, felt within a radius of four miles, killed the child's grandfather, a cousin and a playmate. Parts of the buildings in which fireworks were stored were blown a quarter of a mile.

Cute little rascal, isn't he? Baby Albert, who weighed 75 pounds at birth, is shown here in his first picture with his mother. He's the seventh child born in a dozen years to Venus and Adonis, veteran hippos of the Memphis, Tenn., zoo, and is valued at $3000. Mother and son are doing nicely.

Carrying their investigation to Communist activities into the nation's largest city, members of a special House of Representatives committee here are pictured as they opened hearings in New York. Detectives of the police bombarded guarded approaches to the meeting room. The committeemen shown seated at the table are, left to right: Representatives Robert E. Hall, Mississippi; Edward E. Eslick, Tennessee; Hamilton Fish, Jr., (chairman), New York; John E. Nelson, Maine; Carl G. Bachman, West Virginia. Witnesses told the committee of Red propaganda distributed to children in New York school.

BLOW AT THE DRUG TRAFFIC.

DOPE RINGS SMASHED IN AMERICA.

The heaviest blow yet struck by the Government at the organised drug traffic was revealed when the arrests of 26 wholesale dealers in narcotics at New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Wilmington became known.

"We completed the biggest haul of sources of supply in the history of the country," the United States Attorney, Mr. Tuttle, announced and the Government agents pounced so suddenly that one man was arrested in the act of posting a packet of narcotics to Hollywood.

Five international rings engaged in importing heroin and morphine from Turkey have been smashed as a result of these raids.

One of the principal sources of supply of narcotics was Mrs. Henrietta Esposito, who was arrested on the large estate she owned 20 miles from Norfolk, Virginia.

Anthony La Pinta, a leading figure in the underworld, who was another principal arrested, nearly slipped through the Government's fingers on the steps of the New York Federal building. Gunmen surrounded him in the doorway in an attempt to rescue him, and the agents were forced to draw their guns to keep him prisoner.

Messrs. Dorman, Long and Company—subject to the approval of the Ministries of Health and Transport—have secured the contract for the strengthening of the Scotswood Bridge over the Tyne, near Newcastle. The bridge, which is owned by the Newcastle Corporation, is of the suspension type, carrying a roadway and footway. The work, which will take approximately 36 weeks, will require 350 tons of steel, and will cost £30,343.

MARVELS OF A BANK.

"MOST MONUMENTAL IN LONDON."

CORRIDOR PATROL.

To be lost in the heart of London, within a stone's throw of the News-Chronicle City Office, was the fate that befell me writes the News-Chronicle City correspondent. As I wandered about in the great new Lloyds Bank Head Office I found the chairman, Mr. J. W. Beaumont Pease, in a similar predicament unable to find his room.

Mr. F. J. Camp, clerk of works, who was showing me over the building, trustfully left me behind a solid steel door weighing 1½ tons, which made me feel like Bill Sikes.

£400 Carpets

In the chairman's room, high up on one of the top floors, the two carpets cost over £400 each. For four years 600 men have been working at this giant building which faces on to Cornhill and Lombard-street.

Altogether there are 11 floors, but only five entrances, and Mr. Camp told me there were advantages in such a small number of entrances—and exits!

The bank will open for business the day after August Bank Holiday.

After that date cashiers will no longer need to feel embarrassed when a client presents a big cheque.

Instead of asking him to wait while he sees from the ledger whether he is good for so large an amount he will scribble down the query on the tele-writer at his side. This automatically repeats the written message on a pad in the ledger room downstairs. The reply comes back in similar fashion.

Bombproof Doors.

Here are some of the other marvels of this vast building:

Strong rooms with bombproof steel doors weighing 1 ton, but movable at a finger touch.

Corridors incessantly patrolled, with mirrors at the angles giving the patrol "eyes at the back of his head."

21 lifts and 500 feet of artesian wells which deliver 12,000 gallons of water an hour.

Kitchens for the restaurant—entirely run on gas—which can prepare 1,000 lunches a day.

Round the main hall there are beautifully carved plaques representing ancient and modern coins, designed by Miss Honey Harris, daughter of Sir Austin Harris the bank's deputy-chairman.

The new office has been described by Professor C. H. Reilly, the great architectural authority, as the "most monumental of our English banks, not excepting the Bank of England."

ANALYST'S CERTIFICATE.

Montreal Testing Laboratory
Montreal.

I hereby certify that I have made a careful chemical analysis of Baby's Own Tablets, which I personally purchased at a drug store. My analysis proved that:

The tablets contain absolutely no narcotics or opiates. They can be given with perfect safety to the youngest infant. They are a safe and efficient medicine for the troubles they are indicated to relieve and cure.

Little stomachs are so apt to get out of order, little bodies to get chills and fever, that the wisest course is to keep a bottle of Baby's Own Tablets always handy. Specially made for your wee ones—from six months to six years of age—they are truly baby's very own medicine. Then at the first sign of trouble you have an excellent specific immediately available. Promptly administered they prevent the development of many childhood illnesses.

WOMEN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

That smart, well-groomed look comes by wearing one of the new autumn hats, a double brim, draped hat in soft brown felt, far back on the head, tilted a little to one side, showing hairline and a few locks of hair on either side. This chic hat has the cushion brim that is autumn's favourite, and there is no cut edge edge to it.

CRETONNE REMNANTS.

How to Use Them Up.

What shall we do with the odd pieces of cretonne left over after the new chair covers are made?

If there are any straight lengths remaining, it is a good idea to use them for the chairs as well. Over the backs and arms where soiled marks first show tack broad strips as neatly and invisibly as possible. These are easily removed and washed at intervals, and help to keep the covers themselves fresh for a longer period.

Cretonne cushions are effective. The covers should be slip-on ones so that they can be washed. Don't forget to re-cover the veranda cushions if there is enough.

Cretonne boxes for all purposes are popular, and especially pretty in bed-rooms. A grocer's wooden box or a small packing-case, is easily fitted with a hinged lid, and then it can be covered entirely, inside and out, with cretonne, secured by tacks or small upholstery nails. Furniture braid makes a neat finish.

Such a box is useful for soiled lunch, or evening shoes, hats, furs, and as a roomy workbox. Mount it on castors.

Smaller boxes do for gloves, handkerchiefs, collars, and all the odds and ends of the dressing-table. These might be edged with galon.

YOUR CHILDREN.

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

We don't know the time exactly in man's progress that "feelings" began.

We are told that the Neanderthal man, or sub-man, chased off their sons when they were grown as there could be only one lord of a household.

Jealousy, therefore, may have been the first emotion. At that stage of things we don't credit man with fear.

By the time Neolithic man appeared, he seemed to be blessed with most of the emotions we know to-day, love, hate, fear, anger, jealousy, joy, discouragement, courage, selfishness the whole long varied list.

Now we know that children are born with very few of these emotions; fear comes first of all; sometime in the first and second years they develop the others. We know, too, that every year that follows deepens and broadens his emotional life until scarcely anything happens in his life that does not have one or the other of these reactions.

When Emotions Appear.

Something happens. Instantly he is pleased, angry, afraid, jealous, loving, remorseful, humiliated, or merry, as the case may be.

Do you know, I think it is food for serious thought.

Why should we always have to "feel" some way when anything happens?

Why can't we regard certain happenings with our minds, dispassionately, instead of having to unwrap our pet feelings?

Certainly we are turning entirely too temperamental for real happiness. People who feed on feelings are never happy.

Yet we let the children grow up making the mistake we have made, with a set of unbridled, uncontrolled emotions that pull them this way or that out of balance, lowering their efficiency, and undoubtedly affecting their nerves and making them unfit for the usual adjustments later on that marriage invariably demands.

Just Regulate Emotion.

I suppose it isn't a good thing to be stolid, unemotional or too controlled. If one feels a certain way, perhaps the best thing is not to try to suppress it too much. But why should we feel so much to begin with? Can't we do some things at least without having to cook up a lot of emotion about it either one way or another? Even the finer emotions of love, sympathy, generosity and all the others can do their bit to keep us off a balanced keel. Do we have to be prompted invariably by an emotion to do our duty?

We mothers should try very hard to teach children facts, right living, and practicalities, and discourage the tendency to wait until a certain good, or bad spirit moves them before they act.

I believe that over-emotion is the cause of most of the unhappiness in the world to-day.

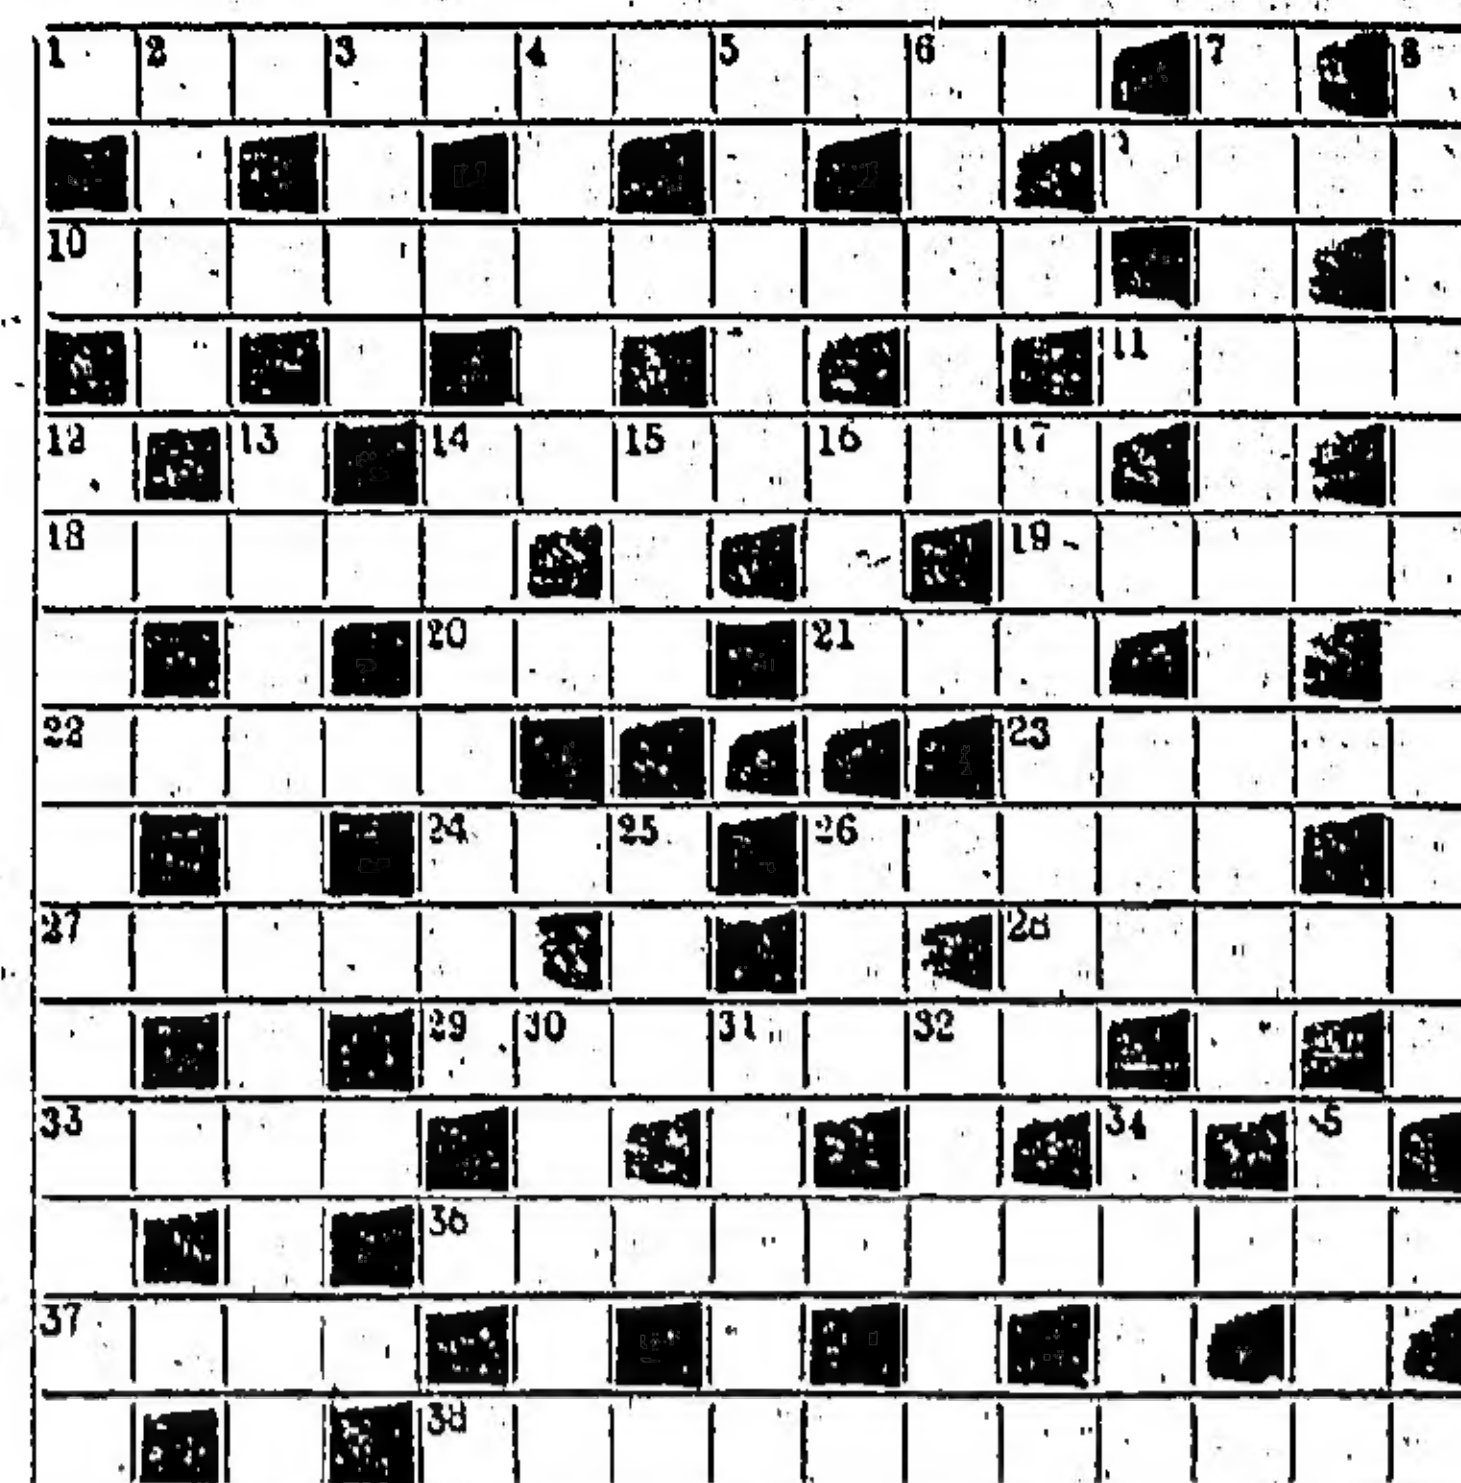

Linen Handbags.

Some of the newest and most useful handbags for summer use are made of crash linen in a variety of pastel shades. The bags are bound with narrow strips of leather and are made in a square shape with two pockets and a spacious purse for money inside.

Suitable for either tennis or golf is this utterly feminine sleeveless white outfit. It's of silk broadcloth, made with intricate bandings and a really full skirt, with some of the season's matching shorts under it.

THE PROTECTIONISTS ANSWERED.

Some indication of the divided opinions which exist on the British fiscal problem may be found in the fact that the resolution by prominent bankers a month ago, urging the imposition of tariffs on foreign imports, has now been answered by another big and influential group comprising bankers, merchants and manufacturers. Amongst these, incidentally, is Sir Charles Addis, well known in the Far East for his association with the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. The arguments which these opponents of Protection put forward may be summed up in the contention that it would be little short of suicidal to impose duties which would raise the prices of supplies of food and raw material, as any stimulus afforded by Protection to certain favoured industries could not compensate for such a disaster.

It is very much to the point that these bankers and traders have directed attention to the possible outcome of any scheme of so-called Empire Free Trade so far as it affects the Home exporter. There has been plenty of evidence adduced recently to show that the Dominions, who have in recent years become industrialised, would not take kindly to the Beaverbrook scheme. However, the manifesto now issued points out that, even if the Dominions could be induced to reverse their policy of building up their manufactures by taxing British goods and agreed to lower their tariffs, their relatively small population would not be able to offer within measurable time any markets comparable with those which foreign countries offer. No doubt the Dominions would gladly enter into an agreement by which Britain would tax foreign goods and raw materials, letting their own in free, and in return they might consent to enlarge the preferences which they already give us on manufactured goods. But that would be a most unequal deal, for the fixed policy of each Dominion is the development, as far and as fast as possible, of its own manufacturing industries, and no "preference" would be allowed to interfere with that. Moreover, the idea that we can restore the stable prosperity of our own great exporting trades, coal, textiles, metals, machinery and shipbuilding, by charging these trades with increased costs of raw materials and higher food bills for their workers, relying upon increased Empire purchases at the higher prices which these increased costs would involve, seems to us a most preposterous idea. Imperial sentiment often thrives on misused statistics. It has been shown again and again that Britain's trade to the Empire has been growing faster, under the existing system, than have her sales to foreign nations. Yet we are urged to confine our most serious attention to the customers who are already buying from us as much as they need—a strange doctrine for wide-eyed business people. It would surely be better to expend our efforts in countries with large potential markets. Outside the Empire there are countries with vast, unexploited raw materials and huge populations with newly-roused illimitable demands for manufactured goods. A policy of peaceful economic penetration in such areas might apply incomparably better results to Britain's export trades than any tampering with Empire tariffs. Moreover, it is to be supposed that foreign nations which have hitherto enjoyed equal access to our markets will complacently look on while we set up tariff walls against them, and will gladly accept any surplus goods which we cannot push into the Empire markets, and sell to us on easy terms the foods and raw materials which we need? The more this Empire Free Trade movement is analysed, the less convincing does it become. It is, in reality, nothing but another term for Protection. In the past, its advocates have called it anything but its right name. It has been designated Reciprocity, Imperial Preference, Tariff Reform, Fair Trade; now it is dubbed Empire Free Trade. But the outstanding fact is that it is unadulterated Protection. As such, it is not likely to prove acceptable to the British electorate, which has again and again demonstrated its abhorrence of the principles on which it is based.

Political Alarums.

To the many alarums of recent months regarding the supposed imminent death of the Labour Government is added a new report of a rupture between the Premier and Mr. Lloyd George following a fruitless conference on unemployment. So many political sensations have apparently been on the verge of brewing during the last six or eight months and have tamely petered out that it would be unwise at this indefinite stage to speculate on the political trend of events in England. At the week-end there was a brief report of the conference on unemployment, when it was suggested that a new Liberal-Labour pact was likely to come into being. Even a coalition was hinted, and it was definitely admitted that both parties were tending towards an agreement which would help the unemployment situation in the autumn. From that report, based on the conference last Wednesday, it was to be assumed that Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Lloyd George were in almost perfect agreement. Even the city thought so, for stocks moved favourably on the rumours. Now, the Sunday Express gives an entirely different version of the results of the meeting. It is definite in its assertion that there is a rupture, almost equally certain that the split is going to widen and that Mr. Lloyd George will oust the Government in October. The two reports cannot be reconciled and Mr. MacDonald's return to Leamington does not assist in the elucidation of the puzzle. We confess that at the moment the political views of the Sunday Express are unknown to us, but would hazard the guess that every support is given to Empire Free Trade and little to the Government. The newspaper concerned may be very well informed for we have no reason to doubt the accuracy of its report. Neither is there reason to doubt the accuracy of the previous one. A more confusing little problem it would be difficult to have, but we prefer to wait for more definite indications that Mr. Lloyd George is going to risk the very existence of the Liberal Party because of a disagreement with one man. The autumn will hold many important political events, but speculation on their probable nature is impossible.

Most Precious of Life's Gifts.

WHAT is the most precious gift that the gods have given to man?

Is it sight? Hearing? Feeling? Strength? No. For even when one or two of these things have faded, there still remains something to make amends for their loss (writes Thomas Burke in the Sunday News).

The most precious adjunct of human life is—memory.

It is equally precious whether we are in full health or afflicted. If we are in health, it is our guide and our friend, for memory is what we live by. Every act of our daily lives is in some way dependent upon it. It serves the individual man as tradition serves a nation.

When a nation loses or abolishes its traditions, it drifts helplessly. So with man. Scarcely any greater disaster can befall a man than that he should lose his memory.

Our Only Teacher.

When that happens he is no longer a man. He is like a baby, and must begin all over again to learn about life by blundering and falling, and gathering together that host of experiences by which each of us directs his thoughts and movements in this life.

It is our only teacher. Without memory we can learn nothing. We can make no progress, launch no enterprise. We can neither handle the present nor perceive how to handle the future.

It is more important even than good health, since a sick man with a good memory can still direct an enterprise, and still manage his own life and the lives of those about him; while a healthy man with no memory is incapable of managing anything.

Recapture Lovely Hours.

Apart from this, it blesses us in other ways. It comes as an ally in all dreary occasions, dull moments and worry.

I have known men who can never remember a poem or a story they have read, or music that they have heard, or pictures that they have seen, or beautiful country that they have travelled in. Before they can recall the poem or story, they must read it again; before they can recall the music they must hear it.

I am deeply sorry for these men. They are as much afflicted as the deaf or the dumb, since for their dreary occasions they have no anodyne. But those of us who can call upon memory can beguile these occasions—such as long waits at lonely railway stations, or hearing Aunt Mary talk about her rheumatism—with verse or beautiful poems, or airs of old operas, or the recapture of lovely hours in our lives.

Many a time have I found myself at a dull house among a group of dull people, with no chance, short of rudeness, of getting away. But when I find myself sinking into a pit of gloom, I call upon memory, and often have I sat in a dull drawing room, outwardly attending to the staid conversation, and inwardly listening to a mental performance of the whole of "Aida" or "Der Rosenkavalier."

When I have left, I have left with an air which convinced my hostesses that I had enjoyed my visit, as, in my own way, I had.

I learned the trick when very young. When I was taken to houses where there were no children my own age, and began to be bored, and was told to stop fidgeting, I found that if I recalled some nice thing that had happened, some adventure that I had had, or some story that I had read, the visit passed easily.

A Well-Stored Memory.

Every day of our lives offers some fleeting moment of interest which memory can store away and reproduce for us in moments of pain or loneliness or worry. We have only to look for them and seize them, and they are ours for ever. The eye cannot retain beautiful scenes, nor the ear beautiful airs, but memory can evoke them to the eye and the ear, and give them to us again in their first freshness.

No man with a well-stored memory can ever be bored. By memory of things seen, or heard, or read, he can in dull moments tour the whole geographical world and the whole emotional world.

Not only does memory recapture for us the past. It exercises for us a beautiful discretion, and is most active when it evokes past delights. We may remember that at a certain time we suffered dreadfully from toothache or neuralgia, but memory will not let us re-live the pain. We may remember that we suffered terribly from a disappointment in love, but we can only remember that we did suffer; we cannot re-live the exquisite anguish of those days.

A Ministering Angel.

But in the matter of delight memory works fully, and we can remember not only those hours that were delightful, but can feel again the delight of them. The Greeks were right in making Mnemosyne the goddess of memory, the mother of the muses.

But precious as this gift is in everyday life, it is most precious to the aged and the sick. It is a ministering angel in all hospitals and workhouses and sick-rooms. To the aged who have little to look forward to, it is a daily food, and so long as memory is active they, too, are active. They can compare past with present; they can call back bright days and hours; they can illustrate current events with recollection of similar events. It is the one thing that gives them an interest in life. Other senses may go, but when memory begins to fade, they, too, begin to fade.

"To be out away from it all, alone, alone with one's thoughts."
"But, oh! Freddie, how very lonely—how absolutely alone!"

STOWAWAYS FROM SINGAPORE.GOOD CITIZENS RATHER THAN ROBBERS.*COULDN'T GET WORK.

Two Chinese, Lam Keng-ming and Ng Sai, were charged before Mr. Whyte Smith at Kowloon this morning with having stowed away on the a.s. Gremer from Singapore on August 2.

The second officer, Mr. H. F. Steenburgen, said the defendants got on board the ship at Singapore and were discovered mingling among the steerage passengers twelve hours after the vessel left.

Detective Sergeant Kellie said no money was found on the defendants. They had boarded the ship, because they were out of work in Singapore, probably owing to the state of affairs in the rubber plantations there.

The first defendant said they wanted to get back to Swatow because everything was quiet at Singapore and they could not get work.

Mr. Whyte Smith:—That does not entitle you to steal a passage.

First defendant:—We did not want to stay behind and become robbers and thieves there. We wanted to come back to our country and become good citizens instead.

Each defendant was fined $50, or one month's imprisonment.

BABY BEETLES TO ORDER."GIRLS" OR "BOYS" AS MAN WILLS.

By controlling their food supplies, a young Australian scientist has been able to increase at will the proportion males or females among "baby" beetles.

Dr. F. G. Holdaway, in a communication to Nature says the conclusion he has reached, as a result of studies on the flour beetle, is that the nutritional state may affect the ultimate sex expression in insects. He is shortly publishing his evidence at length.

Under controlled conditions of temperature, humidity, light and nutrition of the parents, he says, this ratio of males to females has been altered by starvation.

With one day's starvation there is an increase in the preponderance of males while with two and three days' starvation the number of males decreases, and there is a preponderance of females.

War on Insects.

To a New-Chronicle representative Dr. Holdaway emphasised that this sex control was only possible in the larval stage of the insect, which could be likened in human beings to the pre-natal period.

At present, Dr. Holdaway is on holiday from the University of Toulouse.

"It is all part of the war against insect pests, which Australia is waging," he said. "The blow-fly is one of the most costly insect pests to the sheep farmers out there, and we are endeavouring to find out what are the various conditions which encourage it to multiply so freely, and how best we can keep its multiplication under control."

£1,000 A YEAR BY HAIRDRESSING.BUT JUDGE THINKS WIFE WORTHLESS.

The money value of a wife was discussed in the Divorce Court in the undefended petition of Mr. Thomas Norman Steel, incorporated accountant, of Halifax Old-road, Huddersfield, who asked for the dissolution of his marriage on the ground of misconduct between his wife and Mr. E. W. Smith.

Counsel said the damages had been agreed, subject to the sanction of the Court, at £2,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Steel were married in 1920 and the wife continued to carry on a hairdressing business from which she made £1,000 a year. In 1924 they made the acquaintance of Mr. Smith and (according to the case of Mr. Steel) during a visit to Biarritz in 1928 Mr. Smith admitted he was in love with Mrs. Steel. Later he gave a written undertaking not to see her, but did not keep it.

Mr. Justice Hill: The woman has proved herself to be entirely worthless by her conduct, but she may have had some worth before that. At any rate, Mr. Smith had pursued her with persistency and on the evidence she had a commercial value. The damages have been agreed at £2,000, so I will not differ from it.

A decree nisi was granted, the damages to be paid within 14 days.

MONEY LOAN CASE IN COURT.PUISNE JUDGE DISBELIEVES DEFENDANT.*PLAINTIFF WINS.

Conflicting stories as to the circumstances surrounding a loan of $50 were told in the Summary Court this morning before the Acting Puisne Judge (Mr. P. Jacks) when Basant Singh sued Chan Lo and Cheng Wah for the sum of $100 principal and $10 interest under a promissory note. The parties conducted their own cases.

Plaintiff stated that he lent $50 to Chan Lo who was with another man. Defendant signed the note and later paid two or three months' interest.

Second defendant, who said his name was Chan Foo and not Chan Lo, denied that his signature appeared on the note or that he borrowed the money. He explained that he had no other name, but he knew Cheng Wah had borrowed $50 from plaintiff.

He denied that he hid himself when he saw plaintiff and Mr. H. Millington (head bailiff) approaching to serve him with the writ.

Mr. Millington was brought into Court and confirmed the allegation, saying they were told that defendant was not in the house but plaintiff went inside and brought him out. He answered to the name of Chan Lo, and Mr. Millington identified defendant as the man.

In his evidence, Cheng Wah admitted that he signed the note and said that second defendant signed as guarantor. He (Cheng Wah) received the money, and not Chan Lo.

After further investigation, his Lordship said he was not satisfied with defendant's version and gave judgment for plaintiff.

PERFECT BUTLER'S DOWNFALL.HAD BEEN EMPLOYED BY ROYALTY.

Described by the police as a "perfect butler" who had been in the service of some of the greatest persons in the land, Arthur Minors, 41, pleaded guilty at West London Police Court to obtaining two bottles of whisky and an ox tongue by false pretences from Slaters, Ltd.

Det. Perry said Minors was until recently in service at the Siamese Legation, and left after stealing £23 belonging to the brother of the Siamese Minister. Later he went to Slaters and obtained the goods in the name of the Legation. He had been in the service of:

Princess Mary, Duke of Connaught, Ex-King Manoel, Lord Kitchener.

On two occasions he threw up his job because he was afraid that guests at the house would recognise him as a man who had been convicted of theft while in the service of the Duke of Connaught. In other cases he had been discharged for drunkenness.

"Drunkenness," added the detective, "is the only cause of his downfall."

Minors, asked by the magistrate what he had to say, replied: "I am afraid it is all true. It is the drink."

He was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

QUARREL IN COURT.BARRISTER AND JURYMEN IN ARGUMENT.

There was a heated passage between a barrister and a jurymen at an inquest at Onger, Essex.

Mr. Herbert Malone complained to the coroner that a jurymen had told him he was trying to trip a witness. This Mr. Malone strongly denied.

"I have never known an inquisition like this in all my life," he declared, "and I shall take it to the King's Bench."

Later Mr. Malone told the coroner that the jurymen had spoken to a material witness, telling him his opinion as to how the accident into which they were inquiring had occurred.

The jurymen, in his turn, complained that Mr. Malone had been pointing at him, and criticising him, ever since the inquiry commenced. He had also said that the jurymen had made up their minds, and it was useless going on.

Mr. Malone denied this, and protested against the jurymen serving. The Coroner said that he did not like to discharge a jurymen in the middle of a case. He had never done so.

Mr. Malone said that recently High Court judges had made certain observations on the conduct of some inquests, and more would be heard of that.

MACAO'S LATEST ACQUISITION.WATER BARGE LAUNCHING CEREMONY.*NAVY YARD PRODUCT.

Macao, Aug. 31.

The Naval Dockyard here was the scene of a pretty ceremony on Thursday, when a water barge was launched by His Excellency Senhor Tamagini Barbosa.

More than ordinary interest attaches to the ceremony, for more than one reason. The barge has been built to provide water for ships calling at Macao, making use of the port, and in particular the anchorage of the outer port. The water will be taken into the barge at Taipa Island, where there is water in abundance, of excellent quality.

That which is more satisfactory, however, is the fact that the barge is the first work of any size produced in the dockyard since it was decided to re-establish this important adjunct to the port facilities in the Colony. Under the able charge of Commander Valente de Almeida, the Naval Dockyard has been completely changed and has been made to produce good work.

The new barge is an example of what can be done in the Dockyard. It is built entirely of steel, with a net displacement of 250 tons, and a capacity of about 160 tons of water. It is motor-driven and will be an invaluable adjunct for the development of the port. During times of water shortage in Macao, supplies will be brought over from Taipa and Colowan, and the boat will thus serve in two capacities.

The barge has been named the Alviela, after the river from which the city of Lisbon receives its supplies of potable water.

Several speeches were made on the occasion of the launching of the new boat and His Excellency the Governor congratulated Commander Valente de Almeida on the efficiency of Macao's dockyard, praising him for the excellent results secured since the works had been committed to his charge.—Our Own Correspondent.

POULTRY FROM ABROAD.£70,000 WORTH DAILY FOR BRITAIN.*WORLD'S CONGRESS.

The Duke of York, opening the Fourth World's Poultry Congress at the Crystal Palace said that it was a happy occasion which had brought together the representatives of sixty countries to discuss the further developments of an industry which was so universally practised and which had in recent times become of such great economic importance.

In the present depression from which agriculture was suffering all over the world, the poultry industry had brought a measure of relief to many a hard-pressed farmer.

In England we possessed a system of agriculture and research which had largely enabled us to double our production of eggs within the past few years. With the help of this system and the opportunities for improving our methods of marketing under the "National Mark" schemes, we could look forward to an even greater expansion in the future. If international trade were to be successfully carried on there must be mutual trust and good-will.

The Prince's Ranch.

Earl de la Warr, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, speaking at a luncheon given by the Government to the delegates, said that Britain imported poultry products to the extent of about £70,000 a day. If we wanted to keep our countryside going, there must be a place for the poultry men.

The Duke toured the exhibition and paid a visit to the Congress Club, where the delegates from all the nations were presented to him. He was greatly interested in the large-scale model of the Prince of Wales's ranch in Alberta. The model shows in detail about 75 acres of the ranch, including the ranch house and tennis club, cattle barns, chicken houses, and sheep shelters. In the background are the peaks of the Rocky Mountains.

During the morning 24 papers were read in German, Dutch, Portuguese, Polish and other languages.

NOISY WOMAN HAWKER.ACCUSES AN INSPECTOR OF HITTING HER.*STORY DISBELIEVED.

A Chinese woman, when charged before Mr. Whyte Smith at Kowloon this morning with a breach of her hawking licence, said Sub-Inspector Evans hit her on the face at the Police Station and threatened to lock her up.

Sub-Inspector Evans stated that when the defendant was brought to the station, she began to light a cigarette and created a disturbance by throwing a bucket about.

Mr. Whyte Smith:—It is very foolish of you to have done this. The defendant:—They asked me for bail and when I said I could not furnish it, the Inspector struck me on the face.

Mr. Whyte Smith:—I do not believe that. Why did you light a cigarette and why did you throw the bucket about? Do you want to sell food instead of vegetables?

The defendant:—Yes.

Mr. Whyte Smith:—You had better see Sergeant Barnicle, and remember, if you are arrested again, you are not to create a disturbance but must behave properly. Defendant was cautioned.

GENERAL CRITIC OF GENERALS.REMARKABLE ATTACK IN AUSTRALIA.

A remarkable attack on officers commanding the British and Australian forces at the battle of Fleurbaix, near Armentieres, on the River Lys, in 1916, was made in a lecture at the Parliament House, Canberra, by Major-General Senator H. E. Elliott, D.S.O.

He declared that the officers were inefficient and that the operation was badly bungled.

According to the lecturer, the blame was thrown on the Australian General McCay, who had only been a short time at the front, but another general formulated the attack without full knowledge of the work.

The results of the battle were tragically disproportionate to the cost.

A major, "who was the only high staff officer on the field," told him (Elliott) that he expected a holocaust and had tried to prevent the slaughter. This officer had apparently spoken to generals who regarded the men as mere cannon fodder.

Major-General Elliott said that it was almost incomprehensible how after this extraordinary adventure any concerned retained their active command. General Sir Richard Haking, he asserted, tried to throw all the blame on the infantry, to hide his own faults.

Sir Richard formulated the attack without full knowledge of the conditions. There was some excuse, continued the lecturer, for General McCay, who had only been a few days at the front, but there was no excuse for Generals Haking, Munro and Butler, who should have known the facts.

Major-General Elliott has been a senator for the State of Victoria in the Commonwealth Senate since 1920. He became major-general in 1917.

A loss of £14,562 is reported on the Salford, Manchester, Municipal transport undertakings. The Tramways and Motor Omnibuses Committee attributes the loss to "having been obliged by competition to concentrate on the 'bus services to the detriment of the tramways." There was a profit of £4,225 on the 'bus services, and a loss of £18,783 on the tramways. The losses are not to become a charge on the rates, but will be made up out of a reserve fund.

HIGH SALARIED WOMEN.FORTY-FOUR WHO EARN £5,000 A YEAR.*ARRIVE IN LONDON.

Forty-four American women, each of whom earns at least £5,000 a year, have arrived in London.

They represent the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the United States.

Mrs. Geline Bowman, of Richmond, Virginia, the leader, is the president and treasurer of the Export Letter Writing Corporation of Richmond, Virginia, one of the largest direct mail advertising concerns in the Southern States.

And she is one of the most charmingly feminine women in business and the mother of six-year-old twins.

"I handle big contracts, interview business men and have an executive oversight of all the departments of a large office," Mrs. Bowman told a reporter.

"In the South there has always been prejudice against a woman going into business. I began in a voluntary capacity during the war, when I sold War Savings stamps and Liberty Bonds. When I gave up banking I had the highest salary ever offered a woman in a bank."

Mrs. Bowman does not specialise in advertising articles bought only by women. If a young undergraduate of Richmond University gets a letter putting before him the charms of certain shoes or shirts the letter has probably come from Mrs. Bowman's firm, and may even have been written by herself.

Time For Play.

In spite of her business activities Mrs. Bowman finds time to share the playtime hours of her children, to supervise her home, and take her part in the social life of her town.

There are many amazing personalities among the rich and happy. One of them is Mrs. Gussie Young, of Fort Worth, Texas, who, widowed at the age of 47, had to take a job at £2 5s. a week. In five years she was earning £20 a week. She learned stenography, typewriting, and book-keeping at the age of 58, became secretary of a big law firm, and at 61 she is still going strong.

Mrs. Pearl Warwick, of Champaign, Illinois, as director of the women's department of the Household Finance Corporation of Chicago, is in charge of the accounts of 250,000 women, helping them to budget their family finances and plan an intelligent system of savings.

MUSICAL TREAT TO-NIGHT.THE ZIMBALIST RECITAL PROGRAMME.

To-night's interesting musical event, the Zimbalist recital, should be well received by lovers of music in the Colony. It is expected that the Theatre Royal will be well filled as to-night's recital will mark Zimbalist's only appearance here during the present tour. The well arranged programme will include:

1. a Praeludium Glazounow
2. a Concerto Moderato-Andante-Allegro Achron
3. a Suite Bizarra Achron
4. a Etincelles
5. a Yvase Valse
6. a Grace

AMERICAN BASEBALL RESULTS.

CHICAGO GO DOWN TO ST. LOUIS.

New York, Aug. 31. Chicago had their percentage slightly lowered by St. Louis in the National League, losing by eight runs to three. They are still well ahead, however, and look like remaining at the top of the table. New York played a double-header with Boston and each took one game. Brooklyn scored 14 against Philadelphia, who registered but three runs in reply. Both the American League leaders, Philadelphia and Washington, won their matches, while New York lost further ground. Cleveland scored 17 runs against St. Louis but the match had little bearing on the championship table. Full results of Sunday's games as cable by Reuter's American Service are as follows:

CINEMA NOTES.

"THE DANCE OF LIFE" TO-MORROW.

Sound and colour have been successfully combined on the same narrow strip of motion picture film and the surprisingly successful combination will be seen at the Central Theatre, starting on Wednesday, in "The Dance of Life," the all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing picturization of the overwhelmingly successful stage play, "Burlesque."

The perfected sound-and-colour process has been used to photograph and record a lavish stage revue in "The Dance of Life." The stage and performers appear in natural colours the brilliant jewels, the gorgeous gowns, the dancing choruses and beautiful settings. Eighty dancing girls are used in the production and the sound of their steps and voices are distinctly heard. A 32-piece orchestra and the song of a soloist are packed together on a single bit of celluloid scarcely more than an inch square.

The perfected system of combining sound and colour on motion picture film is the work of scientists of the Technicolor Corporation, working with sound engineers of the Paramount studios. The use of this process in "The Dance of Life" is the first that has been successful enough to present to the public.

"The Dance of Life," a story of life behind and before the footlights, is particularly adapted to the use of this medium. In the sequences where colour is used, the elaborate stage presentations, which work into the plot of the story, are intensified and vivified by the use of colour.

"Such Men Are Dangerous." Presented by a superb cast, headed by Warner Baxter and Catherine Dale Owen, "Such Men Are Dangerous," Fox Movietone all talking sophisticated drama, based on Elinor Glyn's charming and fascinating story, is being shown at the Queen's Theatre. Baxter handles a most difficult role in masterful style, giving polish to the best part he has ever enjoyed in an all talking picture, and that is saying a great deal when one recalls his "Cisco Kid" of "In Old Arizona."

Miss Owen gives even a more convincing performance than she did in "His Glorious Night" with John Gilbert. Her work is brilliant throughout and her beauty and charm add much to her characterization of the bride who deserts

WATER-POLO LEAGUE.

THE ROYAL ARTILLERY DEFEAT THE NAVY.

At the V.R.C. yesterday evening, the Royal Artillery defeated the Royal Navy by two goals to one, in the first division of the water-polo league, after an interesting tussle.

The Artillery were easily the speedier side, but bad shooting was the cause of their falling early to take the lead. The interval found the score sheet still blank, but shortly after the resumption, the Navy took the lead after a melee in front of the Artillery goal. The military team almost immediately equalised as a result of a good individual effort by Gray.

Some even play followed, until about fifteen seconds from the final whistle, when the Artillery had a somewhat fortunate goal. In taking a shot at goal, Lewis accidentally threw the ball on the head of one of the players nearby, deflecting the ball into the goal well out of Parker's reach.

Lieut. Howard officiated as referee.

FANLING GOLF.

RESULT OF BOGEY POOL COMPETITION.

The Bogey Pool competition at Fanling, played from August 30th to September 1st, attracted 49 entries. It was won by J. G. Campbell (18), who finished one up, with A. H. Ferguson (2) second, two down.

Other scores were:—E. des Voeux (13), R. Young (7), F. Groves (12), M. N. Cochrane (14), all two down.

The second prize was decided by drawing lots.

her husband. The portrayal of the meddling sister is in the hands of Hedda Hopper, who in sophisticated roles, has few equals in pictures. Claude Allister, in a "Lord Algy" role, Albert Conti, as the suave secretary, do their work well. Bela Lugosi portrays the role of a plastic surgeon in his usual finished manner.

Seldom has a picture received a more enthusiastic reception than that accorded "Such Men Are Dangerous." It embraces all the elements that make a great play-suspense, thrills highly dramatic situations and just enough comedy to relieve the tension and almost audible heart beats.

DANCING JUDITH

by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH ROSKIN.

CHAPTER XLII.

"I simply cannot stand it any longer," said Judy. "I shall have to go to the police!"

She sat in the Cafe Turc, with a dozen or so of her men friends about her. It was a little less than a week after Bruce Gideon's visit. Every day she was growing stronger, though she put on no flesh and still had to use two sticks.

She looked around the table, took up her coffee spoon, and beat it on her saucer. Dan, the Italian waiter, came running up, as he did to her lightest word.

"No, Dan," she said, "I don't want anything. The coffee's lovely, but I can't drink any more, or I shan't sleep. I was talking about Miss Morley and Mr. Dumont." She looked around the table again. "Is it possible that nobody has heard from Bastien?"

"Not a line—not a word—not a breath!" came in a chorus from the assembled artists.

"I hear that both of their places are locked up!" cried Judy. "I'm frightened. There has been such a lot of queer stories lately in the papers."

"Do you mean to say Steyne hasn't heard from Chummy?" Michael Stone asked.

"No—not a word."

Judy just said that, and no more. Her mouth closed like a little trap. Steyne had not been seen at the Cafe Turc for some time.

"It must be just a coincidence," volunteered some one. "They must have each gone away for some personal reason."

"But not to send a word to anybody!"

"They couldn't have been kidnapped!"

"I believe they have been," Judy said forcefully. "To-morrow morning I'm going to the police!"

She did not do so, because she had a violent headache the next day. It was one of the results of the physical suffering and mental strain she had been through.

The doctor came to see her, and she had a long talk with him. He said she was not the great surgeon who had treated her feet, but the practitioner who was looking after her general health. He was quite a young man and fully alive to all that she meant, not only to men as individuals, but to the world of men.

"You've come to a standstill," he told her. "I'm not satisfied with you. You must go away. You must get into the sun."

"All right—I'll go," she said a little ungraciously. "I'll go before the end of this month."

"The sooner the better," he replied with decision.

Her head was very bad. When the landlady's daughter came up to ask if she would see Mr. Steyne for a few minutes, she could not resist.

"Forgive me for coming," Alan said: "but I thought perhaps you had heard from Clarissa."

"Not a word," she answered. "I'm worried ill."

Steyne came and stood near her. "Your head aches, Judy?"

His voice said that he wished his head could ache for her. Judy had heard that note in many voices; but only in his did it rouse an answering thrill.

"It's nothing," she said. She looked up at him and smiled. As on the first night when she had seen him, she was struck by his physical fitness, by the look which said that he got what he wanted.

"The doctor says I must go away," she went on.

"Judy, you are going away?"

"He says I must. You know there is just a chance that some day I may dance again. I must get well."

"Of course, you must get well." "It won't do me any good to go now, because I'm so worried about Chummy."

"Yes, I know." "Alan!" Her voice was sharp with the exasperation of continued anxiety. "Why hasn't she written to you?"

"I don't know. I can't think." "I'll drive me crazy!"

Her mouth puckered. She looked for a moment like a child about to cry.

"Judy!" Steyne said quickly. "Don't! Don't!"

She could see he was aching to take her in his arms.

"You mustn't mind anything I say to-day, Alan," she said wistfully. "I have a terrible headache."

"Judy, I can't stand it!"

"Nor can I. You mustn't say anything to me. It wouldn't be fair."

tween them, and that he could not bear her pain.

The next day Judy was much better. There was a nip in the air, and it whipped up the boundless energy in her little frame. She went for a walk in the morning. She could get along quite well now on her two sticks.

Her urging heart took her to the street where Chummy and Bastien had both lived. There, on the sidewalk, beating out a doormat, was the housekeeper of Chummy's building—a vacant-faced, dark-skinned woman, thin as a rake with very few teeth.

"Miss Morley's back," she said, smiling casually.

"What?" gasped Judy.

"Yes—and such news! Go up and see!"

Judy padded up the stairs breathlessly, both feet on each stair at the same time. Chummy's door was open. Inside there was a cloud of dust, and the furniture was all over the place.

"Chummy!" called Judy faintly. Out came Chummy, with very brown cheeks, and took Judy in her arms.

"Judy! Little, little Judy! How did you know I was back?"

"I just came by," said Judy, when her friend had done hugging her. "And have you been mad?"

"Perhaps, a little," said Chummy, and she laughed. "You're going to scold, Judy, but you mustn't. I'll explain."

"Explain! I should like to know how you can explain, Miss Morley! And I must have a chair to sit down on."

Chummy took her into the studio and turned a chair right side up.

"But you can walk, Judy! How marvelous, marvelous!"

"And what about you?" For once Judy's voice was really cold with anger. "Do you know that you've frightened me terribly—that you've nearly killed me?"

"Judy, little Judy!" said Chummy—the new, bronzed Chummy, with the gay voice and the look of bouncing health. "I do so abjectly apologize! I've been abominably selfish, but perhaps you'll forgive me, because I—well, somehow, we felt silly and didn't like to tell."

"Didn't like to tell what?"

"That we got married and went off on our honeymoon."

"Who—got—married?" gasped Judy.

"Bastien and I."

It took more than Chummy's wedding ring to convince Judy that her friend was not mad. It took quite a lot of explanation and repetition and assurance that Mrs. Dumont knew what she was talking about.

"You and Bastien! Judy kept saying in a bewildered voice. "Bastien and you!"

"We knew you'd all wonder a lot," Chummy said. "We felt silly—especially I, Judy, having been engaged to Alan, and finding out that it was a mistake."

"Was that why you didn't write?"

"Of course it was—and why we stayed away so long. We determined not to come back until we'd quite got used to it ourselves. You see, it did seem rather an idiotic thing to do."

"But Chummy," said Judy suddenly, "did you really want to do it?"

Her eyes were fixed on her friend. They were filled with a great, eager question, while the rest of her face looked almost vacant. It was as if everything had come to an end, as if the main-spring of her life had suddenly run down. It was the reversal of all that she had believed to be unalterable truth. Chummy had married Bastien Dumont!

Chummy gave a ringing laugh. "But, of course, I wanted to do it, little Judy!" she cried. "What on earth would I have done for, otherwise?"

"The question was unanswerable. Why should she have done it? It convinced Judy. She believed blindly in her friend's truth. She looked into Clarissa's eyes, and was convinced that she had married Bastien Dumont because she wanted him for her husband, and wanted no one else.

"What a good thing you found it out in time, Chummy!" she exclaimed.

She opened her arms, and the two clung together.

Judy spent the day with Chummy. In the afternoon Bastien came in, also very bronzed, and as picturesque and lively as ever. They had been to the West Indies for their honeymoon. He had found an ideal studio, with rooms where they could live, but they wouldn't be vacant until March; so they had decided to rub along as they were until then.

Judy sat between them, brimming with gladness.

"Oh, you're a perfect couple!" she cried. "I declare, you're made for each other, and why did we never think of it? You seem—you seem such tremendous friends!"

They looked at each other, and Judy burst into Judy's sitting room.

About seven o'clock Steyne burst into Judy's sitting room.

"Judy! Judy!" He was pale, and his hands that closed over hers were cold. "You've heard! Clarissa has married Dumont—and I'm free!"

"I don't know what I'm saying or doing, Judy, I'm free!"

He was like a young whirlwind. She nodded.

"I've been with them all day, Alan. It doesn't seem like a real world at all."

"I've seen them just now, Judy, and they're as brown as berries and jolly as sandboys!"

"I know. They're very happy."

"Judy, you can't say no any more now! You can't send me away any more!"

She gave him a little helpless smile.

"I suppose not."

They lunched at Ginori's, and afterward went to the Cafe Turc, where the news was announced, and there was much toasting and good will and laughter. Steyne was not there.

In the late afternoon Judy went back to her rooms. She was tired. It had been a tiring day; but the Dumonts were going to take her out to dinner.

About seven o'clock Steyne burst into Judy's sitting room.

"Judy! Judy!" He was pale, and his hands that closed over hers were cold. "You've heard! Clarissa has married Dumont—and I'm free!"

A. STOKINK, Chief Manager.

Hongkong, 25th May, 1929.

"Alan, supposing I wanted to dance again?"

"Of course you will dance again! Who could imagine you not dancing?"

"You wouldn't mind, Alan?"

"Mind! You wonderful Judy! I shall be ever so proud."

She smiled dreamily.

"I mightn't want to," she murmured, "even if I could."

"Judy, say you love me!"

"You know it, silly!" She looked at him through streaming tears. "I think I want to die," she whispered, as she slipped into his arms. Then she gave a long sigh, which ended up in a rapturous smile, as she added: "Except that I want to live—with you!"

On Judy's wedding day the sun shone, and then it rained and Alan was so nervous that he dropped the ring, and Frank Hylton, his best man, was so nervous that he had to chase it halfway down the aisle.

The guests laughed and cried, and the crowd outside the church cried and laughed and threw flowers. When it was all over, everybody was worn out and felt like rags, and yet somehow they knew that it was one of the greatest days of their lives.

The flower woman at the street corner, who was one of the honoured guests at the reception and one of Judy's oldest friends, summed it all up.

"We had plenty to eat and plenty to drink," she said, "and I cried myself sick in church, and I was never quite so 'appy in all my life!"

And when you got to the bottom of it, what could have been more fitting on the wedding day of little Judy Grant?

THE END.

MORE TRIALS FOR KANSU.

AN EARTHQUAKE AND BIG HAILSTORM.

Peking, Sept. 1.

Just as Kansu was recovering from the recent famine, and the prospects for the harvest seemed good, an earthquake, a hailstorm and floods have ruined the crop in some districts, according to a letter from Mr. Findlay Andrew, writing from Lanchow on July 26.

The hailstones were such as were not known previously in living memory. Mr. Andrew found blocks of ice still nine by four inches in size even after melting all night. Sheep and birds were killed, and the trees were stripped, the devastated area being forty miles long and five miles wide.

The earthquake awoke all Lanchow on July 24, and reports were still coming in when the letter was written, reporting the severe damage from the quake in certain districts.

It will be recalled that there has been more than one appalling earthquake in Kansu in recent years, with much loss of life.

When a crowded East London Sunday school excursion train arrived at Southend alarm was caused by a discovery of fire in one of the coaches. The train was carrying 800 mothers and children from St. Mark's, Silvertown, and the 87-year-old vicar, the Rev. S. Smyth. As the train entered the station smoke was seen pouring from a compartment and porters found the woodwork beneath a seat in flames. The compartment was the only one unoccupied, but children in the adjoining compartment stated that shortly before reaching Southend they were frightened by smoke and heat.

STOWAWAY TO PAY.

CHINESE TAKEN TO MANILA AND BACK.

Chan Wah, a Chinese, pleaded guilty before Mr. Whyte Smith, at the Kowloon Magistracy, yesterday, to having stowed away on the Empress of Canada. He said that he had some money but it was not sufficient and he wanted to go to Singapore.

Mr. H. King, Master-at-Arms on board the Empress of Canada, said that the defendant was discovered hiding behind some tarpaulins and wire in the store the morning after the ship left Hongkong. He was taken to Manila and brought back. The sum of $11.30 was found in his possession.

Mr. Whyte Smith: I impose a fine of $40 or three weeks' imprisonment and you will also pay $10 compensation to the C.P.R. and in default, one week's imprisonment. That is to say, if you pay the $10 out of the money found in your possession then you will get off with three weeks' imprisonment instead of one month.

The defendant said he would pay the $10 in order to shorten his imprisonment.

COUP BY THIEVES IN DISGUISE.

MISTAKEN FOR EMPLOYEES OF A FIRM.

Thieves who adopted disguise to cloak their movements stole furs worth $5,000 from a warehouse in Upper Thames-street, E.C.

They were dressed in light dust-coloured smocks similar to those worn by employees of the furriers, and carried out their raid under

NEW NORTHERN GOVERNMENT.

FORMALLY ESTABLISHED IN PEKING.

Peking, Sept. 1.

The Northern Government was definitely established this afternoon.

The Government will have eleven Ministries—Interior, Foreign, Finance, Justice, War, Navy, Education, Communications, Agriculture and Mining, Labour and Commerce, and Industry. The Ministers have not yet been appointed.

There will be one Yuan, namely the Control Yuan, which will exercise jurisdiction independently. Five to seven members will be nominated to this body by the Central Executive Committee.

A Military Council will also be established; also a Supreme Court Committee for codification of the laws, and a Committee of Mongolian and Tibetan Affairs—Reuter.

The State Council.

Peking, Sept. 1.

A Taiyuanfu message to the vernacular papers states that a meeting of the Central Executive Committee on August 30 decided that a State Council be formed immediately, consisting of eleven members, of whom seven have so far been announced, namely:

Yen Hsi-shan, Feng Yu-hsiang, Chang Hsueh-liang, Wang Ching-wei, Yang Shao-yi, Li Chung-yen and Hsu Chung-chih.

Yen Hsi-shan has been persistently urged to accept the Presidency of the Council, and after often refusing has now been "obliged to accept"—Reuter.

the eyes of employees of neighbouring firms.

Bundles of furs were thrown by the men through an aperture in the wall. These were placed in a waiting car, which was then driven away.

Is Your Husband's Secretary Like This?

Many a wife, particularly if she's jealous-minded, has an exaggerated idea of the charms of her husband's secretary. Sometimes this comes up as an important part of the wife's life, and at an unexpected moment to see for herself. Occasionally she sees a brunette vision of loveliness like the young lady above posed with stenographic pad and pencil. But cheer up, ladies. Most secretaries are plain and no reason for Friend Husband's mind to wander from business.

The exception above is the secretary of Wickland Seel, the famous newspaper writer. And, truth to tell, she is just as dangerous as she looks. Already she has played havoc with Seel himself and is said also to have involved the good-looking young husband of Seel's daughter. But see and hear for yourself this sensational all-talking motion picture.

YORKSHIRE BEAT KENT.

EASY VICTORY IN THE LAST COUNTY MATCH.

NOTTS. WIN AGAIN.

London, Sept. 1. Yorkshire won handsomely in their last cricket championship match of the season when they were opposed to Kent at Gravesend. They won by an innings and 45 runs and are forced to finish either second or third in the championship table.

Kent made 187, in their first knock, but Yorkshire replied with 443, two of the batsmen scoring centuries. Leyland was defeated when he had made 112, but Mitchell carried his bat for 101. Bryan made a fine stand for Kent in their second innings when he contributed 96 to the team's total of 211.

Nottinghamshire beat Worcester by ten wickets at Nottingham. Worcester batted first and compiled 117, Barrett taking six wickets for 21 runs. Notts, however, did little better in batting, the team being dismissed for 132. Brooke taking half the wickets for 36 runs. Worcester went in again and he took eight wickets for only 33 runs, Worcester being dismissed for 60. Notts made the necessary 46 runs without the loss of a wicket.

Against Sussex at Brighton the Australians made 367, Hurwood scoring 61 and Hornibrook being undefeated at 59. Sussex went in to make 269 (J. Parks 84, Cook 67 not out). Hornibrook took five of the wickets for 51 runs. The Australians went in again and when play ended to-day they had made 22 for the loss of no wickets.—Reuter.

ANOTHER EAST TO WEST FLIGHT.

COSTE AND BELLONTE SET FORTH.

Paris, Sept. 1.

The well-known Far East fliers, Captain Coste and his navigator Bellonte, have started a trans-Atlantic flight in the famous "Question Mark," which has secured several long distance records.

It has an engine of 650 horsepower, capable of a speed of 110 miles an hour. The flight is expected to take 35 hours.—Reuter.

Heading for New York.

Paris, Sept. 1.

Coste started on a flight to New York at 10.55 a.m.—Reuter.

[Only two east-to-west Atlantic flights have succeeded hitherto. The first was in April, 1928, when Captain Kohl, Baron von Hunsfeld and Commandant Fitzmaurice flew from Ireland to Labrador; while the second was recently accomplished by the Australian, Kingsford Smith, and an international crew.]

LORD ROTHERMERE IN ACCIDENT.

NOT HURT IN CRASH AT EUSTON STATION.

London, Sept. 1.

Lord Rothermere was a passenger on the "Night Scot" express which, when arriving at Euston from Glasgow, crashed into the buffer stops, one coach being partly telescoped and scores of windows in the train broken. Lord Rothermere was knocked down by the impact but was not injured.

The American multi-millionaire, Mr. Marshall Field, and his bride, formerly Mrs. Dudley Coats, who were recently married in London, were also passengers on the train. The train was being pulled by two engines and the driver and fireman of the first were buried under coal thrown from the tender when the crash occurred. Twenty passengers were slightly hurt.—Reuter.

ON WAY TO LOSING LICENCE.

SECOND OFFENCE BY A CHINESE DRIVER.

Summoning a Chinese hire-car driver before Mr. Lindsell this morning for negligent driving, Traffic Sergeant Brown stated that the offence occurred in Whitfield Road, near the Bay View Police Station.

Witness was then on his motorcycle and met the car as it was attempting to pass a tram on the right, on its way to town. Prevented from doing so by the approach of another vehicle appearing from the opposite direction, the car again swerved to the left and the driver endeavoured this time to pass in between the tram and witness's cycle. "If I had not driven away immediately there would have been an accident," declared Sergeant Brown.

Defendant was identified as the same man, who had figured in another case on August 1, only the day after he got his licence.

It was pointed out that in that case he was also charged with negligent driving: at the cross-section of Gilman Street and Des Voeux Road. Turning the bend too sharply, he ran into a ricksha parked against the pavement and knocked it over. Sergeant Winslade, who was walking on the pavement, was struck by the ricksha. The officer then attempted to call the attention of the driver, who laughed and carried on. Sergeant Winslade subsequently complained at the Police proceedings.

In inflicting a fine of $25 on the present summons, his Worship told defendant that he was well on his way to losing his licence.

MOTORIST FINED.

COLLIDED WITH ANOTHER VEHICLE.

An owner-driver, Mr. Ma Sui-hung, was summoned before Mr. Lindsell at the Central Magistracy this morning, for negligent driving in Caine Road on August 21.

Traffic Sergeant McInnes said he was testing a driver in a car, going up Arbuthnot Road, when at the junction with Caine Road, he collided with defendant's car, which did not stop clear of the junction, although the light was against him.

The Magistrate:—Why did you not watch the light?

Defendant:—It was raining at the time.

Sergeant McInnes:—There was only a slight drizzle.

Defendant was fined $5.

SERIOUS RIOTS IN BUDAPEST.

WORST DISTURBANCE FOR TEN YEARS.

SIEGE CONDITIONS.

Budapest, Sept. 1.

A general strike has been proclaimed, following a protest by the Social Democrat leaders against failure to deal with unemployment.

The authorities prohibited processions, but clashes with the police ensued. A crowd estimated to number ten thousand, shouting "Bread! Work! Down with the Bourgeoisie!" swarmed the principal streets and stoned shop windows, motors and trams.

The police charged with swords and also opened fire. Some shops and houses were looted. Armoured cars are now patrolling the streets.

Later.

The demonstrations ended in the afternoon. The casualties were one killed and fifty injured.—Reuter.

Budapest, Sept. 1.

Following yesterday's rioting and bloodshed the city is in a state of siege, armoured cars and machine guns being everywhere. At least two people were killed in the disturbances. In addition, hundreds were injured, many believed fatally, while two policemen were seriously wounded.

The number of demonstrators is now officially estimated at between 15,000 and 20,000. Nearly two hundred were arrested. The disturbances were the worst which have occurred in Hungary during the past decade.—Reuter.

LORRY GOES INTO HARBOUR.

DRIVER AND PASSENGER RESCUED.

When charging a Chinese ended by Mr. Lindsell, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with driving a motor lorry at Sai Wan Ho, without a licence, Sergeant Brown informed his Worship that the man had reversed the vehicle and ran over the sea wall.

The defendant Ho Yat, of 99, Whitfield Street, was alleged to have driven motor lorry 1,510 without an appropriate driver's licence at Sai Wan Ho at 8 a.m. yesterday. The accused failed to appear before the Court and his bail of $25 was estreated.

His Worship asked why such a heavy bail had been demanded, and Sergeant Brown remarked that the defendant had been reversing his lorry when it fell over the sea wall into the harbour. A passenger, who was on the lorry, and the defendant, were both rescued.

When asked if the police wanted a warrant for the man's arrest, the police officer replied in the negative and remarked that no other charge could be brought against the defendant.

LADS STEAL SHIP'S TARPULIN.

SENT TO PRISON THIS MORNING.

Two Chinese lads, Luk Lui and Mok Sum, were charged before Mr. Whyte Smith at Kowloon this morning with having stolen a tarpaulin from the s.s. Clara Jensen in Victoria Harbour on August 1.

Detective Sergeant Kellet said the two defendants went on a sampan yesterday morning and boarded the ship. They then made their way into a small cabin and removed the tarpaulin which they threw overboard into the sampan below. A Chinese boy who had seen the incident gave the alarm, and the two defendants were arrested by the Chief Officer whilst alongside the ship. The sampan, manned by two boys, pulled away, and the tarpaulin was dropped into the water on the way to Jardine's wharf, after which the boys deserted the sampan. The tarpaulin was not recovered. It was valued at $200.

The second defendant admitted a previous conviction for larceny. Mr. Whyte Smith imposed sentence of four months' hard labour on the first defendant and six months' hard labour on the second.
